

PODCAST DISCUSSION FLOW CHART

INTRODUCTION:

“Hello, and welcome to Dragon Booktalk’s Podcast Literature Circle Discussion of {BOOK TITLE}, coming to you live from South Oldham High School in Crestwood, Kentucky. Today’s date is {MONTH / DATE / YEAR}, and this is Podcast Number {____}. My name is {FIRST NAME ONLY}, and I am the Discussion Director. Today, our group is discussing pages _____ to _____.”

BODY OF PODCAST:

Please have members go in the order below. Before each “segment,” make sure members introduce themselves by FIRST NAME ONLY and their ROLE. Remember: each segment is NOT merely a one-sided presentation by the member from their Role Sheet. Instead, the podcast should be interactive; information given should initiate conversations and create “back and forth” between members. Discussion Directors should keep the conversation moving, making sure Podcast does not drag, and move to the next segment if time is running out. Time should be at least 15 minutes, no more than 25.

ROLE SEGMENTS IN ORDER OF APPEARANCE:

Summarizer
Vocabulary Enricher
Connector
Illustrator
Literary Luminary
Investigator
Discussion Director

(Note: if a particular Role was not completed for the meeting, skip to the next one.)

CONCLUSION:

1. Discussion Director begins wrapping up:

“We’re about out of time for today’s Podcast. Any final thoughts from the group members?”

2. Conclude the Podcast:

“That’s all for today’s Podcast . Tune in to our next Podcast when we’ll discuss pages _____ to _____. Thank you for listening to Dragon Booktalk.”

OFF-AIR / OFF-MIKE BUSINESS:

1. Tech person should save podcast.
2. Meeting Summary Sheet should be completed. This sheet, along with Role Sheets, are left in the group folder.
3. Next week’s chosen Role Sheets are taken out of group folder. Make sure all members write the upcoming page numbers at the top of their sheets.
4. Any other Literature Circle business should be discussed and completed (plans for Book Commercial, concerns, etc.).
